

Cool Blues

Center Stage @ The Gem in St. Louis proudly presents Blues Artist, Sean Costello.

Hailing from Atlanta, Georgia, Sean has been playing guitar since he was 9 years old, at 14 he was already on the road with his own band and won the Memphis Blues Society's talent award. At just 17, he released his first album, "Call the Cops" described as "an explosive debut" by Real Blues Magazine. Shortly after that, Sean joined forces with blues guitarist Susan Tedeschi on tour and laying down studio tracks on her Gold-certified album, "Just Won't Burn". This album was also given a nomination for a Grammy award. Not bad for just 17 years old.

Since then, Sean has formed his own band again and has released 3 other albums including, Cuttin' In, Moanin' for Molasses and his latest self titled, Sean Costello. Sean's band now is a power trio with himself on guitar and vocals, Aaron Trubic, bass and vocals, Paul Campanella, Jr. on drums.

Costello's guitar work has been compared to such legends as B.B. King, Eric Clapton, and Stevie Ray Vaughan. He has shared the stage with B. B. King, Buddy Guy, James Cotton, Pinetop Perkins and Bo Diddley to name a few.

Learn more about this great young artist @

www.seancostello.com and make sure you attend this show to get your blues fix.....

Proudly Presents

St. Louis, MI

Sean Costello

Thursday, August 23, 2007

Doors Open @ 9:00, show is @ 9:30

For Tickets Call: 989.621.5948

Website www.centerstage.bz

2-60 minute sets

Advance tickets $20

$25 @ the door